Some Questions on Proposition 1

Speaker Bob Moretti agree increased. on one thing— the November the campaign has clouded mean a decline in services? the basic issues. For Proposition 1 aims to require government to tighten its belt. and to carefully select among the wide variety of programs and purposes for which funds can be used.

Opponents have assaulted the proposal with a wide ranging barrage of objections. Central to their attack are claims that essential services would be eliminated, and that local property taxes would increase. These charges deserve examination.

Will the initiative strangle needed programs? In discussing the question, scare tactics should be first eliminated. Opponents have stirred the constituency of just about every existing program with charges that the initiative will wipe out their special cause. Most of these claims should be viewed as a part of the political game - every broad budget reduction effort has had to meet such challenges. It is always the hospitalized child, or blind oldster who is identified as the very next to fall under the budgetary axe.

Such fright charges have been so frequent during this campaign that they cannot be detailed here. Some assurance, however, can be given: under the proposal a new commission will set each year's allowable level of revenues. Thereafter, taxes and budget will be established by the Legislature and givernor with the limitation. The proposition does not presume to determine what programs will be funded and pursued - it sets a ceiling on that year's taxing and spending: the rest is up to legislation as usual - but with a difference, all programs proposed cannot be adopted. the least desirable and essential will fall.

Expenditures for education deserve special comment. The proposition insulates local school districts from the costs of educational programs which the state may in the future mandate on local schools. It requires the state to provide full funding for any new programs or increased levels of service under existing programs. The proposed constitutional amendment has no effect on the current status of local property taxes for education. It was specifically designed so that it would not interfere with, nor change the benefits to local schools of SB 90, a statute adopted in 1972, and which remains subject to control by the leg-

Some groups oppose the initiative, and claim that property taxes will go up if it is passed. The League of California Cities is in opposition because it will not let cities raise property taxes. Both are wrong. Under the proposition local taxing entities can increase property taxes to meet costs of inflation and population increase, but to raise property taxes beyond that requires a vote of the people.

The legislature, what is more, would have no incentive to decrease property tax relief, as if it did so, the revenue limit for the state would also be decreased. If, on the other hand, property tax relief were raised, the

Governor Reagan and revenue limit would also be

The answer is in the negative. Based on past rates of growth and inflation, it is estimated that under the formula the state budget will double (to $18 billion) in 10 vears, and triple (to $27 billion) in 15 years. It is estimated that if the proposition is passed, the budget can grow at a yearly rate of 61/2 to 7 per cent with 1½ per cent to 2 per cent available

Planning Commission has had lapsed. The city mainpassed on to the City Council tained that the permit was with favorable comment, the invalid because no construc-Colma Creek Environmental tion had begun on the pro-Impact Report.

recommended that the reno- year since the permit had to postpone until yesterday a Avenues. vation project be used to create a linear park along the banks of the creek.

"This would be a unique opportunity to create a public asset." he said.

Mullin added that the county has set a high priority on establishing walkways and bike paths in each area. Colma Creek would be an ideal site for such paths.

The commissioners agreed with Mullins and said they believed private land owners along the creek area would welcome a project of this nature because it would improve the creek's condition.

The commissioners voted to recommend the entire EIR to the City Council and to suggest both to the city and county that a linear park be created along the creek.

THE PLANNERS unanimously passed by the commission.

In March the commissioners declared that a use per-

Parking Hike Is 'Unfair'

The reason given by a Daly City property owner for doubling the monthly rental of his Bepler Street lot, used for parking, to the city was 'due to the heavy increase in taxes in the past few years. But some members of the city council, which reviewed the request from Gerald A Goodin, president of Joart Homes Inc., called it 'unreasonable' and

"blackmail." Councilman Bernard J Lycett said he strongly felt the demand for an increase in the rental - from $60 to $120 monthly - was because the city council had rejected a request by Goodin a few months ago concerning construction of an automotive supply store on property owned by Goodin.

"I hope this isn't true, but what else can I think," councilman McRobert Stewart said Both councilmen Paul Hupf and Victor Kyriakis agreed the city should imme diately cancel its agreement with Goodin on the parking

City manager David Rowe explained the city had agreed to rent the lot on a month-to-month fee basis since expiration of a contract with the owner some 10 years ago

Rowe did not think the lot was needed any longer in view of the fact that a nearby lot had been constructed for parking use by shoppers in the Mission Street area.

'I don't know what (Goodin's) reasons are (for raising the rent) but I can't believe it's because of tax increases. Whatever his motive. I can't see giving this increase even for another month," Kyriakis said.

Something of value. One-of-a-kind sterling silver jewelry handcrafted by American Indians.

Fine silversmithing is an art. And that's the way the tribes of the American Southwest have always approached it. Which is why the jewelry the Navajo, Hopi, Zuni and Santo Dominge Indians make is unique. Necklaces, rings, earrings, bracelets—all beautifully hand fashioned of sterling silver. All set with turquoise, mother-of-pearl or jet. Come see what we mean. Each piece reflects a long tradition of craftsmanship and design, yet no two are alike. Pick out a favorite. And treasure it. The collection, $6 to $1000.

Memorial

Let there be no one, however disenchanted with the times in which we live, not pause during the week of Oct. 22 to think of the soldiers who have died in American wars and of the ideas they carried to their graves.

Let everyone recall the words of the often read "Code of the Good American.

Citizens who are good Americans try to become useful, worthy of their nation, that our country may become ever greater and better. Therefore, they obey the laws of right living which the best Americans have always obeyed.

The Law of Self-Control The Law of Good Health

The Law of Kindness

The Law of Sportsmanship

The Law of Self-Reliance The Law of Duty

The Law of Reliability

The Law of Truth The Law of Good Workmanship

The Law of Teamwork

The Law of Lovalty

SPEAKING to voung Americans. Josiah Royce penned a piece he called "You. At This Moment.

You have the honor to belong to a generation whose lips are touched by fire . . . The human race now passes through one of its great crises. New ideas, new issues — a new call for men to carry on the work of righteousness, of charity, of courage, of patience, and of loyalty - all these things have come and are daily coming to you.

When you are old . . . however memory brings back this moment to your minds, let it be able to say to you: That was a great moment. It was the beginning of a new . This world in its crisis called for volunteers, for men of faith in life, of patience in service, of charity, and of insight. I responded to the call however I could. I volunteered to give myself to my master — the cause of humane and brave living. I studied, I loved, I labored, unsparingly and hopefully, to be worthy of my generation.

Mr. Royce's words and many more may be found in an anthology compiled by the Senior Citizens of America and entitled "The American Citizens Handbook." It is full of words that should be recalled in an age when the Vice-President resigns under a cloud, when the White House is being investigated for irregularities, when thousands of young men have escaped to foreign lands rather than serve in the armed forces.

PERHAPS the value of this handbook lies in its ability to make us remember that every generation of Americans. especially the freedom riders and the college students of the 1960's, have shared common goals — one of them being a longing for lasting peace.

As Bruce Barton wrote, "The real inscription will not be written on any stone: it will stand in the dictionaries of the future. Only by writing it thus can the world keep faith with the long sad procession of its unknown heroes to whom it has lied and cheated and fooled.

"This will be the inscription: War. An armed contest between nations. Now obsolete and unknown.

The drum beat came down heavy and the harmonica wailed mournfully as Corky Fowler skied down the slope and did some fancy pirouetting to the beat of the canned rock music.

It could have been Snow Bird in December, but it wasn't. It was Daly City on a sultry day in October and Fowler, perhaps the greatest exponent of free-style skiing, was taking a few warmups on the mobile ski deck in preparation for the 1973 Ski Show which opened a couple of hours later in the manimoth Cow Palace.

field goals by Steve LaPlante and a safety were enough to keep the Bulldogs in control at 8-0 until midway through the fourth quarter. CSM had failed to take advantage of a bad snap on an Eagle punt attempt which had given the Bulldogs possession on the 17. A penalty moved the ball back to the 30 and Laney took over following CSM's punt to the end zone. Nine plays later the score was knotted at 8-8.

CSM blew an excellent scoring opportunity in the second quarter. John Salomon threw a 41-yard pass to Rick Clarke, who caught the ball falling over an Eagle defender on the one.

Then CSM netted nothing LaPlante kicked his second on four plays, Salomon goal. trying two bad sneaks and a fourth down sweep also fail-

Laney had only 11 yards net total offense prior to the drive, but GGC passing leader Mark McKee started hitting his receivers. Paul Berlin made a diving catch on one side for the TD, and after a penalty, another dive on the other side of the end zone for the conversion.

"We made them throw out and away," noted CSM coach. Steve Shafer. "That's the most difficult way. Their tight end just made some great plays.

Only one other time did Laney get as far as San Mateo's 25-from which point the Eagles were pushed back 19 yards and then gave up a fumble (to converging Mike Cozad and Barry Hyde).

Pier Celebration

The date appears to be the only certain in the planning for the opening of Pacifica's new fishing pier and mission-style sewer plant.

The date has been fixed at

Governor Ronald Reagan has been invited to speak. but Don Jeffers, administrative aide to the Pacifica city manager, who is in charge of making arrangements for the fete, is awaiting a reply.

Another uncertainty is a proposed dinner-dance for the event.

Traditionally, the city has held an annual dinner-dance at which numerous awards are made, generally near the Nov. 22 city anniversary date. Jeffers is studying the possibility of holding the anniversary celebration on Nov. 10.

SO FAR plans call for events to begin at 10 a.m. with a parade, going down Clarendon, to Francisco, to Paloma, to Beach Boulevard and on out to the pier. Invited have been three local school bands, Boy Scouts and other marching units. Among parade features will be a number of antique car

For Today's Woman

By Carol Drake

A new homemaker recently asked me to explain the difference between ground beef and hamburger. Ground beef is the uncooked meat while hamburger is one way to cook ground beef! She also wanted to learn about ground beef since her budget necessitates its frequent use.

Ground beef's amazingly versatile, high in nutrition and costs less than many other meats. One pound yields four average servings. Ground beef's at home in plain or fancy meals! It can be pan fried, pan broiled, braised, roasted, barbecued, stewed, charcoal broiled, baked and simmered. A good cookbook provides umpteen recipes to prepare it. In making meat loaf and some of the other ground beet dishes, it's helpful to cook double batches - one to serve immediately and one to freeze for a quick, busy-day meal Keep a well-stocked spice and seasoning shelt handy for bringing out the best in ground beef and other meats. Crown Colony offers an excellent line . . . stop and browse next time you're at Safeway. It's a great way to familiarize yourself with spices and seasonings which help make mealtime a real pleasure.

When planning to plant hese low-growing ground covers, the first step is good soil preparation. The whole irea to be planted should be lug up and enriched with a very liberal amount of iumus material plus a slowelease, non-burning fertiizer. The area must be leveled and it should have a good sprinkler system

The one we see most often is Ajuga reptans, popularly known as the "Carpet This one makes a low, flat carpet about two inches high. It has dark green leaves that grow from two to three inches wide in full sun and a bit wider when grown in partial shade. It has spikes of small blue flowers, similar to tiny hyacinths, that grow from four to six inches high.

There are several forms of this ajuga. The green forms stay a good green color from early spring until frost, then the leaves turn a bronzy red.

A front lawn planting of ajuga reptans 'Metallicacrispa,' the copper or bronze leafed ajuga, that we have greatly admired is at the Marian Kaiser home on Creekwood Way, Hillsbor-

Mrs. Kaiser planted this ajuga a number of years ago to go with a ceanothus hedge along one side of the planting as the flowers were about the same color as those of the ceanothus. A few years back we pictured this planting for the Plant of the Ajuga reptans usually flowers from early spring to early summer. Mrs. Kaiser says hers has some blooms all the year 'round. She mowed it one year, most cultural directions advise mowing once a year, but she nad found that this is unnec-

She hasn't fertilized the plants for quite some time out they are watered regularly, in fact so much water is given that the ceanothus, one of our California natives, is getting out of hand.

Ajuga is started from rooted creeping branches, divisions and flat-grown cuttings. These transplants are best set out in spring or early fall. Set the plants six inches apart if you want full coverage in a hurry or 12 inches apart if you have the patience to wait a little longer. The plants really need fertilizing in early spring and again in early autumn. They will need watering every seven to 10 days during summer, more often when it is not and they are in full sun. This ajuga makes a thick carpet of beautiful leaves. It came through last winter with just a bit of frostburned foliage but recovered mickly.

Several Kinds

There are several named varieties of ajuga, such as Giant bronze, Giant green. lungle bronze and Jungle green. The leaves of these are larger. There is even one named 'Variegata' with the leaves edged and splashed with creamy white. All have lovely blue flowers.

Another ground cover planting that we have greatly enjoyed was of chamomile, Anthemis nobilis. This was a small, outdoor sitting area off the living room. Small paved areas held the chairs and a swing but the center was planted to this charmingly fragrant herb. This is a perennial with finely cut, light green leaves and little, yellow, button-like flowers. My friend mowed this ground cover three to four times a year or whenever the branches began to look rangy. She reported that weeds had never been a problem after the plants did a full job of covering. Watering was done about once a week. Plant divisions should be set about one foot apart in full sun and well prepared

The Sand Strawberry or wild strawberry, 'Fragaria chiloensis' makes a beautiful, compact, lush green carpet that can be kept to three or four inches in height with two or three mowings a the eatable strawberry but much smaller. It also has attractive white flowers about one inch in diameter in spring. Occasionally these plants will set fruit but this av we want to tell about is rather unusual in cultiround covers that hug the vated gardens. There is a hybrid variety that does set fairly good tasting fruit but

Food for Life Teen-agers Need Help With Diets

By GEORGE BRIGGS Ph.D. Nutritionist

Many teenagers grow in two directions at once - up and out. Being overweight is a common occurrence during adolescence, although that's little comfort to the young person carrying around extra pounds

Teens wanting to shed that added weight, as with adults. have to begin with a strong desire to be slim From there, the remainder of a weight - reducing program is much easier.

Next, it's very important to have a checkup by the family physican, who can tell if the teen-ager's weight really is excessive Since rapid growth occurs during the early teen years, fairly large weight gains may be perfectly normal. A doctor can also determine if something besides overeating is responsible.

Nonetheless too much food is a likely cause of too much weight. Too little activity and exercise comound the difficulty. The doctor can set reasonable goals for making changes. perhaps by recommending a hietitian who can help with specific food problems.

In helping to plan a teenager's diet, it should be remembered that a teen is still growing and has special autritional needs. Thus most of the popular "name" diets. such as "Dr. Atkins Diet. which stress only certain types of food (at the expense ethers), are unwise for both children and teenagers. Obviously, the process of growth requires a balanced supply of all the nutrients, a supply that low-calorie diets less than 1,400-1,600 calories a day) generally can't meet Each diets not only don't furenough variety of foods but simply may not have enough cateries to "grew Severe restriction of calories during a period of rapid growth may result in a loss of body muscle, not just a loss of fat. The magic formula for losing weight - for both voung and old — is that there is no magic formula. There really is no safe shortcut or easy way to getting a trim figure. It all boils down to: a real desire to lose weight strong willpower, more exercise and activity and modified eating habits. That usually means drastically cutting down on empty-calerie foods while eating a balanced diet.

EDWARD TOMASELLO. Jefferson Elementary School District Trustee is expected to resign his school board position this month. The trustee, who has been appointed Superintendent of Parks and Maintenance for Daly City, said he will submit his resignation to the San Mateo County Superintendent of Schools. This would necessitate a special election to be held to fill the vacancy created. (Post Photo by George Brooke)

As a boy of 11 in Lammari. Italy, Frank Petrini aspired to a higher education, but was forced instead to work on the family farm until he was 14. Then he got a job at Lucca, four miles away walking there daily to learn the meat business.

Called to the Italian army at 18, he returned in 1918 only to find the meat business in shortage. For some time he delivered milk in a horse-drawn wagon, a business that failed when milk overproduction developed.

In 1922, he emigrated here settling in San Franciscio. where he took a job in a small butcher shop and enrolled in an adult ducation program. There was not even time for dinner. His day started at 6:30 a.m., and he worked to 7 p.m., exactly when night school classes began. It was coffee and pie after class - at 9 p.m.

After learning English, Petrini was advised by his school principal to stick to the meat business, instead of continuing his dream of becoming a professional man. He then decided to have one of the city's finest butcher shops.

Robert Altman Tells How Films 'Escaped'

Robert Altman's films have almost an underground following because the Hollywood studios never know how to label them and sell them to the public.

Most of his films "don't escape" the establishment system of distributing, he told a sell-out audience vesterday at his retrospective afternoon at the San Francisco Film Festival.

"I feel there is a studio conspiracy against me but I don't really believe it. They know how to advertise a Steve McQueen movie but mine they can't

They jump on box office successes, like 'The Godfather,' and those that don't make it right off are forgotten.

That reasoning applied to most of the films from which clips were shown including "The James Dean Countdown (with James Caan and Robert Duvall), 'That Cold Day in the Park' (with Sandy Dennis), "Images" (with Susannah York), "McCabe and Mrs. Miller" (with Julie Christie and Warren Beatty). After sequences from his latest unreleased film, "Thieves Like Us," they showed the full-length Philip Marlowe detective mystery, "The Long Goodbye," starring Elliott Gould

Asked what political comment he was making in McCabe and Mrs. Miller," he called it "pretty obvious: a microcosm of capitalism and frontierism in America," adding he doesn't like to make "obvious points like with Agnew but prefers to sneak into the enemy camp.

He then described the enemy camp as "all those people who don't see things the way I see them.

Take what happened with 'M.A.S.H.' What we did allowed us to get the picture in front of a great many people who don't have my views because we kept them laughing a lot. Most people think it's a nice funny, dirty movie and I only wish they could have been in that outfit.

'Images' he claimed to be about schizophrenia and insanity without "going into it medically. I meant it to be a frightening film.

The ill-tated "Brewster McCloud" is his favorite film because "you tend to love your unsuccessful children the most.

Twentieth-Century Fox was so busy with two big war movies, 'Tora, Tora, Tora' and 'Patton' they left us alone to make 'M.A.S.H.' So we brought it in under budget and ahead of schedule and sneaked it at a Market Street theater during your film festival and the response was so good; the studio decided to do something about distributing it.

Otherwise it would have been allowed to escape being seen by the public, like so many others. Having so many ACT and Committee people in it found special interest from the people in San Francisco,

As for his impact on young people, he denied being aware of it.

I'm an artist, not a philosopher or politician. I try to show things the way they appear to me and if they gain some truth from it, that's fine. If it's harmful. I'm sorry. My personal life has nothing to do with my filmmaking.

Already working on three projects. "92 in the Shade." Slide," about the sickness of gambling featuring two compulsive gamblers but no set storyline. Nashville," a look at a Grand Hotel non-story that reflects the life style of the place.

'I worked in television a long time and feel it is very limited. We were always trying to beat the system and sav and do things around the limitations. Now a television company is putting up a lot of money for me to make 'Nashville' and it's questionable if it will ever work on TV. For them it's only an

Mahan Stars at Rodeo

One of pro sports' biggest superstars, rodeo's Larry Mahan, will appear at the 1973 Grand National, Oct. 26 through Nov. 4 at the Cow Palace in Daly City.

The Grand National -'world's greatest western show" - is ten days of thrilling rodeo action, colorful horse show events and the friendly country atmosphere of the biggest livestock exposition this side of the Rockies.

Mahan and 500 other top professional cowboys join in the thrills, skills and spills of big league rodeo - a sport which wraps glamour and showmanship around a demanding athletic perform-

Rugged riders and ropers are matched against the roughest, "rankest" broncs and bulls in the business at 8 p.m. weekdays, 2 and 8 p.m. Saturdays, and 2 and 7 p.m. Sundays throughout the Grand National's run. These arena spectacles also include the World Championship Jumper Sweepstakes, the young riders of the Foxfield Drill Team and specialty

During the day, there's something happening every minute from 7 a.m. on: a continuous flow of livestock judgings and auctions, horse show competition, a quarter horse sale and an industryconsumer symposium on meat questions. Tickets for evening and matinee shows also include admission to the livestock exposition.

Mahan, who has won the nickname of "Super Saddle" along the rodeo circuit, took the title as All-Around World Champion Rodeo Cowboy for an unprecedented five straight seasons and comes to the Cow Palace as the leader once again in allaround cowboy standings. In 1969, he set a record for most rodeo winnings in a single season ($57,726) — and he can pass that mark at the Grand National

When Mahan thrills arena audiences with his tenacious rides, using strength and skill to stay aboard a powerful animal which is doing everything it can to get rid of him, he's using both natural talent and the experience gained from 17 years on the rugged rodeo circuit.

He earned his prize money "$6 and a belt buckle" when he was only 12. Mahan's made enough since to buy a large ranch and a Cessna 310, which he flies from rodeo to rodeo — entering about 90 each year and sometimes competing in two or three at once.

It hasn't been an easy trail. He's broken legs twice. shattered his jaw cracked several vertebrae. A bull once stepped on his head. which became so swollen that nobody recognized him for weeks.

He's appeared in two movies, "J. W. Coop" and The Honkers," made many TV appearances and is the subject of a book written by novelist Douglas Kent Hall His own "Fundamentals of Rodeo Riding" is a popular text for aspiring rodeo stars.

Average in height and nattily dressed — he's been known to turn up for promotional appearances in a nutria fur coat - Mahan doesn't look like the popular concept of a professional cowboy. But when he gets on a bronc or bull, he's all that anyone could ask in a rodeo performer - a wiry athlete resisting the fury of an animal many times his weight.

'The image of the cowboy has changed," Mahan says. 'Rodeo cowboys are athletes, with the same kind of girls in their 20s rely comskills that other athletes pletely on their winnings have. # Petition Back to the Issues Filed on PD Move

A 121-name petition protesting moving of the old South San Francisco Police Station from its present location on Maple and Miller Avenues has been filed at the South San Francisco City Hall, by Attorney Thomas L. Bocci

Signing the petition were various residents and merchants of the downtown area.
